1. To kill for money, Lover, Citizen.
2. I see you through the chanting crowd. We could make quite a little money, Lover, Democrat.
3. What did you say, Mir Hossein? Are you in there?
4. Deafening chant. I take off Barbara's jacket; She leans into me. Tense Head Roll.
5. Let's kill 'em. I'd be glad to string him up, but it'd be better if a truss landed on his head.
6. CAPITAL IS THE LOVER OF DEMOCRACY WHO CONVINCES DEMOCRACY TO MURDER, TO COMMIT INSURANCE FRAUD.

1. TO KILL FOR MONEY.

2. I know you must be there—I move through a dim grey light.
3. We could make quite a little money.
4. How many highballs? I don't recall. I recall going up to my apartment: 4 tiny rooms—it isn't so poor.
5. But, his contributions to the community.
6. I can write poetry from prison.
